Energy Crisis Bill Would Give Broad Powers To Governor

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Legislation which would turn the governor into a virtual energy czar could give him an opportunity to lead the state through the current energy crisis, Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff said Monday.

"I know he's a political creature," Carpenter said of Gov. J. James Exon.

"And I think he's a leader. If he's not, this will give him a chance to prove it."

The bill, LB685, introduced by Carpenter as chairman of the Legislative Council's executive board, was heard by the Judiciary Committee and held for later action.

Opposing the proposal at a public hearing were spokesmen for Northern Natural Gas Company and the Nebraska Petroleum Council, which represents major oil companies and some independent operators.

Carpenter's proposal would authorize the governor to declare an emergency, order curtailment or allocation of energy use and "order such other procedures and actions as he may deem necessary and appropriate."

The bill directs that any Nebraskan affected by such an order must comply with it "notwithstanding any provision of law or contract to the contrary."

A five-member energy resources emergency committee would advise the governor on proper actions, and his orders would be subject to District Court appeal.

"I know it's a far-reaching step to take under a democratic form of government," Carpenter said, but access to court appeal would keep the governor from becoming "a dictator."

Strong leadership during the energy crisis could create "adverse political reactions" for the governor, Carpenter noted.

"In order to lead, you might need to forget your political future. Maybe this man won't do it. I don't know."

Carpenter said he has never discussed the bill with Exon. Under an amendment prepared by the senator, the bill's powers would terminate on March 15, 1975.

Opponents said the state cannot preempt fuel allocation provisions and other energy consumption rules and regulations devised by the federal government.

"The bill is too broad in its coverage," insisted Charles Chace of Lincoln, executive director of the Petroleum Council.

Actually, he said, the allocation system constructed by the federal government is "working above the expectations of many people."

Opponents also questioned whether the governor could impair legal contracts without violating the state constitution.

Also held for later action were bills to revamp court jurisdiction of juveniles and provide for direct appeal from the Workmen's Compensation Court to the Nebraska Supreme Court.

The juvenile proposal, LB620, sponsored by Sen. Wally Barnett of Lincoln, would fix jurisdiction of most juvenile cases in the county courts and require county attorneys to follow certain criteria in determining whether to file more serious charges in juvenile or criminal courts.

The latter decision would be subject to judicial review upon appeal.

Attorney General Clarence Meyer opposed the bill, arguing that it is "a rich kid's bill" opening the way for "people with money" to challenge the county attorney's decision.

Navy Asks Justice Dept. To Look . . .

Possible Fraud Eyed In N-Sub Contracts

Washington (UPI) — The Navy asked the Justice Department Monday to look into possible allegations of fraud in Litton Industries' claims against the government in connection with nuclear submarine contracts.

The Navy said in a statement its own review of the case "established a requirement in the judgment of the secretary of the Navy . . . to refer the findings together with the evidence in the Navy's possession to the Department of Justice to make further investigation as deemed necessary to establish the presence or absence of allegations of fraud."

The Navy said it was turning the matter over to the Justice Department because it lacked the investigative staff to reach a final determination on the validity of the claims. A Navy attorney spent a year looking into the case before the Justice Department's criminal division was asked to take it over.

Litton filed $37 million in claims against the government in 1972, alleging the Navy was late in delivering material and then supplied defective goods, causing a 17-1/2 month delay in building three nuclear attack submarines at Litton's Ingalls shipbuilding yard in Pascagoula, Miss.

The Navy has ruled that Litton was due only $6.4 million, and the company is contesting that ruling before the Armed Services Board of Contract Appeals.

E. Grey Lewis, the Navy's general counsel, said 80% of Litton's claim was disallowed but that did not necessarily indicate fraud. He used the word "puffing" to describe the situation in testimony last November before a congressional committee.

"Attorneys normally tend to overstate their case when they file a claim," Lewis said.

However, Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, who masterminded development of the nuclear submarine, said in a memo printed by the Washington Post that Litton was involved in "misrepresentation, if not fraud" in trying to charge the government more than $4 million to $7 million.

Rickover said the delays and cost overruns were "caused by its (Litton's) own poor planning, by its manpower shortages, by its late material purchases and deliveries and by mismanagement of the contract."

The Navy sources said "the larger part" of the issue is whether Litton produced "false documentation" to back up its claim.

The case is one of the Pentagon's toughest. Lewis testified that his report went to his boss, Navy Secretary John W. Warner, early in November. It took Warner more than two months to forward it to the Justice Department.

A Navy spokesman said Warner took so long "due to the significance of the action and the potential impact on a large corporation, its stockholders and creditors."

Litton said in November it had been trying for months to obtain a copy of the document to place before the Board of Contract Appeals but the Navy refused to release the report saying it was "confidential."

The principal Israeli-Egyptian disagreement appeared to be over the number and kinds of antiaircraft missiles and other weapons Egypt is to retain on the east bank of the Suez Canal.

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said shortly before Kissinger's arrival that the Soviet Union had rebuilt most of the missile sites in Egypt and Syria and provided longer-range missiles.

A U.S. official in Kissinger's party, who declined to be identified, said Kissinger's talks with Sadat may lead to direct negotiations between Israel and Egypt and a "fairly rapid progress on disengagement."

Kissinger carried with him to Israel a map prepared by the Egyptians to outline the positions they want to hold as well as the buffer zone to be manned by United Nations emergency forces when the two armies are separated.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban met Kissinger at the Jerusalem airport.

Israeli officials said later that Eban and Kissinger talked business on the drive to the city and the meeting continued for another half-hour in Kissinger's hotel. No details were disclosed.

Kissinger also had in his briefcase the draft of a disengagement proposal worked out by a mixed team of American and Egyptian diplomats and Gen. Mohammed Gamasy, the Egyptian chief of staff.

Kissinger said he hoped to return to Washington by the weekend. His trip to Amman, Jordan, scheduled for Tuesday, was postponed until later this week.

The three applications before the council are for 27th and Old Cheney Rd., 57th and Old Cheney Rd. and 84th and O.

Councilman Max Denney opposed referring the report to the commission, contending that council members were "delaying at arriving at a decision which will be a difficult one to make."

Boosalis countered that she did not consider a few months delay would be unwarranted in light of the "overwhelming effect it (such a decision) will have on the future of this city."

In other action the council adopted Brodgen's standards on parking and advertising for professional offices allowed by special permit in the E-1 zoning district.

Brodgen was directed to come up with those standards as a condition of the council's approval last week of attorney Doug Kluender's request for an amendment to the zoning code to allow professional offices in the E and E-1 zoning districts.

Specifically, Kluender wanted permission to convert a fraternity house at 12th and H into law offices. It is located in an E-1 district.

On questioning from City Atty. Dick Wood Monday as to the advisability of allowing such offices in entirely residential E zoning districts, the three centers should be built by the year 2000, located in the north, south and west sides of town.

He recommended that three centers should be built by the year 2000, located in the north, south and west sides of town.

Counteroffer Given Kissinger By Egypt

JERUSALEM (AP) — Egypt rejected parts of Henry A. Kissinger's troop pullback plan for the Suez front Monday and the American secretary of state flew to Jerusalem with an Egyptian counter-proposal.

"I believe we have narrowed the differences substantially on this trip," Kissinger said as he left Aswan military airport after four hours of talks with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat. "I hope to be able to narrow them further in Israel in the next day or two."

Kissinger carried with him to Israel a map prepared by the Egyptians to outline the positions they want to hold as well as the buffer zone to be manned by United Nations emergency forces when the two armies are separated.

Nader, Simon Views Conflict . . . Gas Stations Last

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Energy Office (FEO) issued regulations Monday night that in effect will force owners of oil-heated residences to lower their thermostats six degrees, and that leaves gasoline stations last in line for available supplies.

Earlier Monday, Federal Energy Director William E. Simon told Congress the nation is threatened with "dangerously low levels" of petroleum products, but consumer advocate Ralph Nader said the world is "drowning in oil."

They presented their sharply conflicting views in testifying before a House-Senate economic subcommittee looking to the accuracy of government energy statistics.

John Hill, an assistant director of FEO, said in an interview that gasoline stations probably would get about 15 to 20 per cent less gasoline than the public would use if there were no shortage.

Essential services which purchase gasoline in bulk were assigned all the fuel they need. Other commercial bulk buyers such as taxi fleets will receive as much as they did in 1972.

The regulation itself, however, described this second-priority category as "all other business ventures" and spokesmen for the FEO at first told newsmen, in answer to questions, that gasoline stations were in that category.

Brodgen later said they were not in either the first or second priority categories, but right where they were in the regulations as originally proposed last Dec. 12 — last in line, to receive whatever is left after the priority users are served.

Taking first priority for gasoline are essential services including agriculture, emergency services, energy production, sanitation services, telecommunications and passenger transportation.

The regulations for middle distillate fuels, including home heating oil and diesel fuel, assigned top priority to essential services, which receive all of their current needs.

The world is literally drowning in oil," Nader said. "Any government agency can create a shortage simply by announcing it."

Nader said geologists believe that less than 25 per cent of the world's oil reserves have been discovered, and that the reserve figure supplies by oil companies and the U.S. government actually represents only about 10 per cent of real proven reserves.

The standards approved by the council to apply to attorney, architect, accountant, dentist, physician, surgeon, engineer and other professional offices include:

—restricting advertising to signs two square feet in area, attached to the building and un-animatized, non-illuminated, non-reflecting, and non-glaring.

—requiring one off-street parking space for every 200 square feet of floor area for a building or portion of a building occupied by physicians, surgeons, chiropractors, osteopaths and dentists.

—the building shall not occupy more than 25% of the lot area.

—new buildings shall be located on a lot containing no less than 14,000 square feet of lot area.

—new buildings shall not exceed two stories in height.

New York Times
News Summary

(c) New York Times News Service

Tel Aviv — Secretary of State Kissinger spent the day in Egypt with President Anwar Sadat, making what Kissinger said was "very good progress" toward narrowing differences on separating the Israeli and Egyptian armies near the Suez Canal. He returned to Tel Aviv Monday night, bringing the Israelis a detailed Egyptian map and counterproposal for disengagement. (More on Page 1.)

Solzhenitsyn Attacked

Moscow — The Soviet Union began a major attack on Aleksandr I. Solzhenitsyn with a charge in Pravda that his new book on the Soviet penal system was "stuffed with cynical falsifications concocted to serve the forces of imperialist reaction."

Montreal — The Canadian government Monday formally limited wiretapping and other types of electronic eavesdropping by law enforcement agencies as well as by private citizens. The law still leaves the police a great deal of leeway but for the first time establishes rules for when and how judges can authorize electronic surveillance.

Officials Cautiously Confident

Washington — Federal officials are now cautiously confident that there will be no general shortage of heating oil this winter if consumers keep their thermostats turned down and if there is no prolonged spell of cold weather. Subject to those qualifications, a key analyst said, "we can make it."

Agnew Disbarment Recommended

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — A panel of Maryland judges said on Monday that former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew is unfit to practice law and should be disbarred because of deceitful and dishonest conduct.

In a recommendation to the Maryland Court of Appeals, the special three-judge panel said Agnew "has admitted his guilt to a crime involving moral turpitude."

The recommendation resulted from disciplinary proceedings brought by the Maryland Bar Association after Agnew resigned the vice presidency and pleaded no contest Oct. 10 to a federal income tax evasion charge.

There was no comment from Agnew on the panel's decision.

Skylab Astronauts Set Record

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Skylab 3's astronauts became history's longest-flying space travelers on Monday night, setting a record that might stand for a decade.

At 8:10 p.m. CDT, Gerald P. Carr, William R. Pogue and Edward G. Gibson surpassed the single mission endurance record

"Mr. Agnew will not be making a statement at this particular time," said Ann Breen, a receptionist in his Washington office.

"His conduct, characterized as it must be as deceitful and dishonest, strikes at the heart of the basic object of the legal profession," the judges said in their decision.

"We see no extenuating circumstances allowing a lesser sanction," they said in calling for disbarment rather than the suspension Agnew had sought.

"In our opinion, the proper administration of justice, the proper respect of the court for itself and a proper regard for the integrity of the (legal) profession compel us to conclude that the respondent is unfit to continue as a member of the bar of this state," the report said.

The final decision on whether to suspend, disbar or reprimand the former Maryland governor will be made by the Court of Appeals, Maryland's highest court.

That court has sustained lower court judges in a majority of disbarment cases, but occasionally has assessed stiffer or lesser penalties.

Agnew has 30 days in which to challenge the recommendation and ask for a hearing before the Court of Appeals. A court spokesman said a hearing could be scheduled by late February or early March.

Agnew appealed to the special panel, Judges Ridgely P. Melvin, Shirley B. Jones and William H. McCullough, at a Dec. 18 hearing not to deprive him of his ability to make a living.

He said that rather than disbarment he should be suspended for a suitable period, saying such action would be "a reasonable protection for the courts and the bar."

Agnew told the panel he had great love and respect for the legal profession and the practice of law.

"Should I be permitted to resume my practice, I would conduct myself in a way that would not bring discredit to the bar, the legal profession or the courts," he said.

Agnew appealed to the special panel, Judges Ridgely P. Melvin, Shirley B. Jones and William H. McCullough, at a Dec. 18 hearing

Carr, Pogue and Gibson are orbiting toward their goal of 84 days, with splashdown set for Feb. 8.

Space agency officials are confident they'll complete the full mission and establish a space endurance mark that will last a long time.

Skylab 3 is the last American manned space flight until a joint U.S.-Russian mission in July 1975, and that will be a relatively short trip of less than two weeks.

After that it will be at least 1978 before American astronauts again fly, and probably well into the 1980s before long journeys are planned using the reusable space shuttle.

Right-To-Reply Law To Be Considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed Monday to consider whether states may force newspapers to print editorial replies from political candidates.

The justices will hear arguments later this term on the constitutionality of Florida's right-to-reply law, which grants candidates access to newspapers that "assail" the candidate's record or character.

The Florida Supreme Court upheld the law, finding that it enhanced freedom of speech in pursuit of free and fair elections.

The Miami Herald appealed the decision, and several major news and civil liberties organizations called the ruling a major and unprecedented violation of the First Amendment.

In other action Monday, the court:

—Agreed to consider a challenge to the constitutionality of the federal law prohibiting the mailing of obscene material. The court will consider it together with a challenge to a Georgia obscenity law brought by a movie theater operator convicted for exhibiting the R-rated motion picture "Carnal Knowledge."

—Agreed to review three challenges to a U.S. Circuit Court ruling upholding a rate structure imposed by the Federal Power Commission in 1971 on natural gas producers in southern Louisiana, source of one-third of domestic gas production. Government lawyers said the case could have a broad national impact and urged a speedy settlement "because of the urgency of the current gas supply shortage."

—Agreed to decide whether thousands of Mexican laborers may continue to commute from their country to the United States for seasonal farm work.

In the Florida case, the court reserved the right to reject jurisdiction over the appeal without reaching a decision on the merits of the case.

Mississippi is the only other state with a similar right-to-reply statute, and the Mississippi Supreme Court has limited its use to instances of libel.

The Florida dispute arose in 1972 when state legislative candidate Pat L. Tornillo Jr. invoked the largely ignored 1913 right-to-reply law to force publication of a response to two Herald editorials opposing his ultimately unsuccessful candidacy.

The state trial court held the law invalid, but the Florida Supreme Court overturned that ruling.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

According to Attorney General William B. Saxbe, the matter of President Nixon's possible impeachment will be around for another three years. We would not be surprised if he were right but the American people will not view his statement as good news.

The fact is that much of the public is now fed up with Watergate, which impeachment is all about, and wants the nation to move on to other things. While that attitude is not difficult to understand, it does not represent the height of responsibility on the part of those who hold it.

In the matter of impeachment, we are talking about the possibility of criminal acts in office and this is not something you ought to simply forget about because it is unpleasant or because it tends to create problems. Where matters of a felony are involved, society just cannot forget about it.

The fact that impeachment involves the president of the country makes it all the more imperative that the matter not be lightly dismissed. This is a question of criminal conduct at the highest level. How can we ignore it at this level if we carry it to an end at lower levels?

At lower levels, the situation would not be so complicated or time-consuming but this is another reason for us to pursue the matter. The law regarding all actions of the president is vague and many new legal questions are bound to be tested in any action against the president.

This is why it will all take time. But if we do not dispose of the issue once and for all, we will only have to face it again some time in the future. Watergate and Nixon's position on it have raised questions that cannot simply be left hanging in the air.

More is involved than the guilt or innocence of President Nixon. At issue is whether the rights and prerogatives of the office are such that they would shield any man in the office from prosecution, in the event of criminal activity on his part.

Even more fundamental than that is the question of whether a president is above the law or subject to it. We fail to see how these questions can be answered without an ultimate conclusion to the impeachment proceedings.

Possibly, the President could get the questions answered by full cooperation with a congressional committee of inquiry but he obviously does not intend to do this. What his motives might be in that position is somewhat irrelevant.

The fact remains that the President has taken a position which includes safeguards to his office as he sees them as being essential. These safeguards, unfortunately, would protect the illegitimate as well as legitimate operations of the office.

It would be a fine thing if we simply could rely upon the integrity of the individual people elect as president but such is not in keeping with either practicality or our system of government. A means of determining the right or wrong of things was provided in the Constitution through the impeachment process and there is no reason for us to shy away from this.

To put it all aside on the grounds that there are more important things to do is to pay a dear and heavy price for our actions. Additionally, it is wrong to assume that if we proceed in the impeachment process, we will sacrifice leadership elsewhere.

If this is true, it is a further indictment of the President and a new indictment of Congress. If either or both lack the statesmanship to do whatever is demanded of them, then the nation is in pretty sad hands.

We would not welcome another three years of controversy on this subject but if that is what is required, then that is the way it will have to be.

Disenchantment Grows With More Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON — The roster of Americans opposed to foreign aid grows longer by the year, and yet the program manages to limp along somehow. By narrow votes in both houses, Congress last month authorized nearly $2.4 billion for economic and military assistance in fiscal year 1974. But it cannot be assumed that the program will remain in force indefinitely.

Disenchantment with foreign aid cuts across partisan and ideological lines. One of the most startling congressional votes of recent years came on Oct. 29, 1971, when the Senate rejected a House-passed bill authorizing appropriations for both economic and military assistance in fiscal 1972.

In a floor speech entitled "Farewell to Foreign Aid: A Liberal Takes Leave," Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho) said:

"The experience of 20 years of aid shows that we can neither bring about fundamental reform in tradition-encrusted societies nor prevent revolution in those countries where the tide of change runs deep and strong. All we can do is to service the status quo in countries where it is not strongly challenged anyhow."

Arguing the conservative case against foreign aid, Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) asserted:

"For too long (the nation) has attempted to export democracy abroad to unwilling and unready recipients, while neglecting the obvious needs of our people and democratic institutions at home. Foreign aid as an instrument of international diplomacy is a flop and we should stop it."

A quarter-century ago, foreign aid was being hailed as an

Inflation Hits Arms Business

Putting the wasteful spending habits of the military into focus, Rep. Les Aspin, a Wisconsin Democrat, used Pentagon figures to report that during a three month period alone last year costs for 47 major weapons systems had increased $21 billion over their original cost estimates.

That much of a cost overrun amounts to more than a quarter of the total annual defense budget.

And Aspin commented, "we pay more and more and get less and less in real defense." Less, he said, because the military has tried to reduce heavy cost overruns on several weapons by cutting quantities.

Aspin's report brought no comment from the Defense Department and comment really shouldn't be expected. After all, the American people by and large are willing to accept what the military tells them it needs in the way of hardware and they are willing to pay for it — partly because they believe in the strong defense notion and partly because they don't understand the complexities of the systems involved. Most people, we think, would agree that there is no less need for a particular weapon just because the cost goes up.

But isn't a cost overrun totaling $21 billion missing the mark by more than just a little bit? Don't the people have a right to expect that the folks at the Pentagon would do a better job with their calculators?

The Pentagon rip-offs are nothing new to people like Aspin and Sen. William Proxmire, also of Wisconsin. They have been griping about military spending habits for years, but not enough people, apparently, have been listening.

The $21 billion cost overrun smacks of — if nothing else — incompetence. It might get the average taxpayer to wondering about how the money is spent, but we wouldn't bet on it.

High Level Intrigue

There used to be a lot of people who weren't cynical about government and politics. Many of them lost their innocence with the revelation of the Watergate misdeeds and they now understand that such things can and do happen in this country.

Apparently there is more to come. Facts now emerging about the military and high government officials spying on one another paints a picture of a situation we had thought of as more at home in a banana republic or some sinister foreign dictatorship.

Of the use of military intelligence network to spy on Henry Kissinger, Sen. Lowell Weicker said: "It shows the ridiculousness of that situation. I never saw such a screwed-up mess in my life." The Connecticut Republican went on to say that there had been two governments — one open and one secret — under both Republican and Democratic administrations.

Without him elaborating, we're not exactly sure what Weicker meant, but we would read it to mean that there were contests for power — and thus we have the Pentagon spying on Dr. Kissinger and Kissinger tapping Melvin Laird's telephone, and so forth — and that those who really held the power in a given administration were not necessarily responsible to or visible to the people.

The realization that such high level intrigue occurs is not very comforting. We're not suggesting that it is only a short next step to a coup or a suspension of the Constitution, but because of all that has happened, such things would not know have the shock value they once had.

ANTHONY LEWIS

An Impeachment Dilemma

BOSTON — By his performance as the Watergate special prosecutor, Leon Jaworski has quickly early questions about his ability to be independent from the President who appointed him. He has held together the staff picked by Archibald Cox; he has pressed the investigations; he has kept his distance — and his freedom — from the White House.

All that must be acknowledged as preface to consideration of the important statement that Jaworski has just made. He said that he could "see no way at the present time" to make material obtained from the White House available to the House Judiciary Committee for its impeachment inquiry.

There is no doubt of Jaworski's good faith in reaching that position. He had obtained presidential documents and tapes by asking on behalf of grand juries, he felt, and he was therefore bound by personal honor and the rules of grand jury secrecy not to disclose them elsewhere.

Nevertheless, it must be recognized that the view he indicates raises extremely serious problems for the impeachment inquiry. Indeed, the unintended result just could be to immunize President Nixon from any effective retribution for wrongdoing.

Of course there is a mass of material available apart from what the special prosecutor has got from the White House. And there are numerous possible grounds for impeachment that rest on published facts. For example Nixon's 1970 approval of a secret security plan authorizing the use of illegal wiretaps and burglaries.

But for sound political as well as legal reasons, the House committee will surely be intent on exploring the leads closest to the President — any evidence linking him personally with the crimes of Watergate and the cover-up. The committee will be looking for public support; and much of the public, for all its disbelief in Nixon, has indicated a reluctance to undertake impeachment without some showing of direct criminality.

Suppose that Jaworski acquires, or already has, some evidence linking the President to criminal acts. What does he do with it if he does not refer it to the House Judiciary Committee?

He could present the evidence to a grand jury and seek an indictment of Nixon. Many legal experts see no constitutional barrier to prosecution of a president, but Nixon and his lawyers naturally disagree. Jaworski is said to have reached no firm conclusion yet. If he were not prepared to bring such a case, how would the facts ever come out? Would the country have to wait for testimony in someone else's trial? When if ever would that come?

All this makes clear the serious nature of the dilemma that has arisen. It is an ironic situation. Congress originally insisted on a special prosecutor for Watergate because of the possibility that the President might be involved. Yet the

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a working wife, a mother and part-time student in my early 30s. Although I feel healthy and happy, for about the last six months my memory has been very poor and I often find myself in a state of confusion. Could there be any physical reason for this that I would not be aware of, or could it just be due to my hectic daily schedule? — Mrs. F.L.

Positively not, and whoever told you I wrote that is about as far out in left field as you can get.

If a child has a strong dislike for some particular food, I see no purpose in forcing him to eat it, because there are good substitutes for most food items.

But everyone — particularly a child — needs foods that contain certain fundamental nutrients: protein, a little fat, calcium and other minerals, some carbohydrates, vitamins.

Ice cream and cake contain a lot of carbohydrate (starches and sugar) but little of the other basic foods. Children have to have meals that contain the other necessities: protein in the form of lean meat, fish, cheese, eggs; vitamins and minerals in vegetables; calcium — usually in the form of milk.

A child's appetite will vary depending on whether he is in a growing spurt, how much exercise he has had, and how much else he has had to eat. If he's hungry, he'll eat as much as he needs.

But once a child gets the idea that, if he doesn't eat his dinner, you'll "fill him up" with ice cream and cake, what do you think is going to happen?

File that under "wild notions." Not true.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can one take an overdose of cod liver oil?

I take 10 minims (one tablet) per day. — Mrs. F.C.

Large doses of cod liver oil, which contains vitamins A and D, can be toxic, but the small dose you take is harmless.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have always thought that vegetables have more vitamins when eaten raw. My husband believes that cooking vegetables changes their nutrients to a form more utilizable by the body. — Mrs. E.L.

You win the argument. Raw fruits and vegetables are good sources of vitamins and minerals, but overcooking destroys vitamin C and can leach away the B vitamins which are water-soluble. (Vitamins A and D are not affected.)

Cooking has its advantages for some people, particularly those with irritable colons which cannot tolerate a high fiber content. Cooking can soften the fiber (cellulose) content, making it less irritating. This does not, however, make the nutrients any more "utilizable."

In other words, some people can handle cooked or pureed vegetables or fruits with less distress, but I wouldn't say that increased utilization.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My baby was born with spina bifida which resulted in enlargement of the head after the spine was closed. My sister-in-law's baby was born with this defect. Even though it is not a hereditary disease, does this increase our chances of having a second child with the same defect? — Mrs. C.F.

No.

Best Bargain

State Senator Terry Carpenter's endorsement of Senator Richard M. Daley's proposal for a U.S. constitutional amendment extending from two to four years the term of U.S. representatives proves how little some people have learned from political scandals of this long year past.

Senator Frank Lewis of Bellevue was certainly considerate in granting Nebraska voters credit for intelligence and political consciousness. He stated that a four-year term for representatives would destroy the responsive character of the legislative body. To have become aware of political ambitions misguided and revealed to date is to have found full agreement with Senator Lewis's thoughts on such a drastic revision.

Senator Carpenter states that two-year terms require "constant campaigning" which is "an expensive venture" that "takes your mind off what you should be doing" in Washington. Might one argue that if minds in Washington were on what constituents elected them to do, they would not have to sell themselves to their public when the time for re-election arrived?

If the logic of Senator M. Daley (expressed briefly as "fewer elections, fewer expenses to the taxpayer") were followed to conclusion would not be the best "bargain" to spare taxpayers of all elections?

Dog Bite

Lincoln, Neb.

The biting of a boy at Holmes Lake during this last weekend once again demonstrates the criminal inhumanity of dog owners and dog-lovers.

If they were not criminals, they would have stopped and given first-aid to the boy. Since they are criminals, they cannot be expected to answer the call for assurance that the dog does not have rabies and the boy must suffer the pain and agony of seven weeks of anti-rabies shots. The pain from the shots is great enough to incapacitate a grown man.

Such criminals condemn as "dog-haters" persons who would choose to protect a human life, especially a child's life, before protecting a dog.

In your editorial of Jan. 8, you state: "McGovern was never able to explain to the satisfaction of the American people exactly what it was he stood for." He stood for truth! . . . a president and a government we could believe in. I agree with the Miller study that apathy is our biggest problem. People were too wrapped up in themselves to find out what Senator McGovern was trying to tell them. They've got it right in their laps now and just listen to them holler!

It was a privilege to work for Senator McGovern. I am proud that he tried so hard to bring the government back to the people. He and Eleanor are two of the most decent people I have ever met.

R. Harlan To Run For County Board

Former Lancaster County Commissioner Ralph Harlan, who served the second district for 12 years, again tossed his hat into the ring for the commissioner post now held by his successor, Robert Colin Sr.

Harlan, in filing, said that he didn't feel that the thinking and interest of the rural residents and residents of the 17 communities in the county outside of Lincoln are represented on the county board.

"It seems to me that these views should not be overlooked in local government — especially since agriculture is the largest single industry in the State of Nebraska," the Hickman resident said.

Harlan said that he felt it would be beneficial that the "needs and ideas of rural and farm communities be somehow reflected on the county board."

"I believe my past experience as a member of the county board, as a builder, my many years as a farmer and as a resident of a small community in Lancaster County would be a real benefit to the board and give it a diversity of representation," the former commissioner said.

A Democrat, Harlan served as chairman of the then-Democratically controlled board for six years during the 12 years he was a member, and chose not to seek re-election in 1970 in order to run for State Railway Commission.

Harlan won the Democratic nomination to the Railway Commission but was defeated by Republican Robert Marland in the general election.

A graduate of the University of Nebraska School of Agriculture, Harlan has been active in the Masons, Scottish Rite and Shrine, Chamber of Commerce, Nebraska Agribusiness Club, Lincoln Community Council, and served on the City-County Health Board, Park Board, Southeast Nebraska Health Planning Council and Lincoln Hospital and Health Council as well as being active in the Southeast County Officials Association and the Nebraska County Officials Association during his tenure on the Lancaster County Board.

He is married and the father of two sons.

45 Omahans Are Fired By Housing Chief

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The director of Omaha's new Department of Housing — Community Development has stirred a controversy by firing about 45 employees, — virtually all of those assigned to his office.

The employees are being retained as temporary employees and will be given a chance to apply again.

The director, Dr. James Swick, said: "The people we presently have on board will have to compete for jobs. If they're the best, they'll be in the new department. If not, they won't be."

Several of the employees have complained to City Council members. Councilman Jerry Hassett said the council is concerned about the situation.

Hassett said he will attempt to block Swick's action with an amendment giving present employees "grandfather rights." All would be retained and none would take a cut in pay.

Hassett said the amendment, if legal, would be to an ordinance setting up civil service job classifications for employees of the new department.

Mayor Edward Zorinsky said he supports Swick, who was hired at $26,000 a year Dec. 1.

Zorinsky said taxpayers are entitled to the best personnel available for the department.

Auto Firm Hit By Fire In Niobrara

NIOBRARA. (AP) — Fire destroyed the Moody Motor Co. here Monday morning. Authorities said.

The building and its contents were a total loss, firemen said.

No injuries were reported. Cause of the blaze was not immediately determined, but authorities said it may have begun in the building's furnace.

Authorities estimated about a half-dozen vehicles, including some owned by customers, were lost in the fire.

Firemen from Niobrara and Verdigris fought the blaze, and poured water on adjoining buildings to save them.

Several minor explosions, apparently caused by stored paint, fed the blaze.

Last Of Three Douglas County Escapees Held

OMAHA (AP) — The last of three men who escaped from the Douglas County Jail Sept. 16 has been apprehended in Atlanta, Ga., Sheriff Ted Janing said.

Deckard and two other men escaped from the sixth-floor jail by sliding down a rope made of mattress covers. They had remained out of their cells undetected after being let out to make telephone calls.

Brownville Electricians Refuse Overtime Work

Omaha (AP) — Electricians at the Cooper Nuclear Station at Brownville are refusing to work overtime, but the refusal is not greatly affecting construction progress, a Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) spokesman said Monday.

The spokesman said overtime work is "strictly voluntary" for electricians, members of Local 265 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers in Lincoln. He said the employees are working their regular 40-hour shifts and added he did not know why they would not work overtime.

He said the union had not asked the 45 electricians at the plant to refuse to work overtime. "If they are doing that, it's without the sanction of this office," he said.

He added that he did not know if the letter caused the workers' action.

The NPPD spokesman said the electricians are involved in construction, finish work and electrical testing. He said he did not think more workers would be hired because of the overtime situation since it is not hindering progress that much.

Lower Platte NRD Eyes Election Plan

By IVAN TRAVNICEK

Star Staff Writer

Breaking the Lower Platte South Natural Resources District (NRD) into ten election subdistricts was the major topic of discussion at a Public hearing Monday night.

Also discussed was the NRD's responsibility to reach an agreement with the city of Lincoln on how recently proposed bicycle paths would be handled in areas under NRD responsibility.

Robert Crosby, attorney for the NRD, said the district would be divided into 10 election subdistricts. A petition would be circulated in each subdistrict for the purpose of getting two or more candidates for the two NRD director posts available from each subdistrict. Lincoln would have five of the 10 election subdistricts.

On top of this, there would be one director elected at large, raising the total number of board directors to 21, he said.

He said candidates will have to be residents of subdistricts, but voting will be at large. The only eligible petition signers will be those residing in that election subdistrict.

Crosby said the deadline for the petitions would probably be in August with the names of qualified candidates appearing on the November ballots.

He said the candidate in each subdistrict getting the most votes would be elected to a four-year term, while the candidate coming in second would be elected to a two-year term. After this initial election, he said, directors would always be elected to 4-year terms, elections being held every two years for alternate directors.

Turning to bicycle path concerns, Dr. Joe Young, Commission member, said there are a number of problems that must be solved before bicycle routes can be established in areas of NRD responsibility.

Stream crossings, he said, might be a potential obstruction to water flow and paths on top of levees might cause a maintenance problem because it is difficult to limit access to these routes so as to keep out motorcycles.

A statewide organization has been formed to locate an estimated 5,000-10,000 Nebraskans who are eligible for federal Supplemental Security Income payments but are not aware of it.

The effort is part of a national campaign called Project SSI Alert, according to John Ratliff of Lincoln, project chairman.

General Motors is offering air bags as an option on 50,000 1974 cars—Cadillacs, Buicks, and Oldsmobiles, in place of the currently mandatory seatbelt-ignition interlock system. Allstate commends GM's action, and hopes other car manufacturers will move to follow GM's example.

What Allstate is doing.

We've been urging and supporting the development of an automatic passive-restraint system like the air bag for years. Because we believe that a system like the air bag will do a great deal to save lives. Prevent serious injuries. And help hold the line on your insurance costs. And we make the following offer. Allstate will provide a 30% discount on the medical coverage portion of the auto insurance for cars factory-equipped with air bags.

What the air bag has been doing.

There have been 15 real-life crashes of air bag-equipped cars, and the air bag has never failed to inflate. Over 50,000,000 over-the-road miles have been logged with air bag-equipped cars. In every frontal type crash at a speed high enough to cause serious injury, the air bag worked perfectly. Only once, in all this driving, has the air bag inflated inadvertently. (In that instance, the car was brought to a safe stop easily and without incident.) All this leads to a single conclusion:

Air bags are the only road-tested and injury-criteria-tested passive-restraint system available today. (Lap belts are optional equipment in the 50,000 GM air bag-equipped cars.)

The air bag. It could save your life. It will save you money. At Allstate.

How the air bag works:

Automatically inflates in a split second...

protects... and then deflates.

A Last Resort

Picketing For Survival

By GRACIA SIEB
Star Staff Writer

Although, ordinarily there is a negative connotation attached to the term "picketing," picketing "is not demeaning when it's for the survival of your way of life," explained Mrs. Sharon Steffens, of Grand Rapids, Mich., who was Monday speaker at the Nebraska Agricultural Progress Conference and representative of the Women for the Survival of Agriculture in Michigan.

"Rather, it would be demeaning if you let things go as they are," said Mrs. Steffens, explaining how she and several other farm wives had to resort to picketing to get higher prices for their apples.

According to Mrs. Steffens, Women for the Survival of Agriculture in Michigan (WSAM), was started about two and one-half years ago by an energetic young farm wife who was unhappy with farming profits and other conditions.

"We consist of a group of concerned women who are trying to educate ourselves and others, including legislators and the news media, on issues relating to farm prices and conditions," she said.

"In 1970, apple growers were being offered prices below the cost of production for the fourth year in a row and in a year when there was a shortage of many fruits," she continued. "You see the processor sets the price and the farmer has to take or leave it."

"Now we didn't picket because we wanted to. It was a last resort. 'Picketing' is a kind of a dirty word because you think of goons with chains and violence. That is not how we run a picket."

"We have a ladylike, nonviolent picket. We wear long white gloves as a symbol of that, and besides it's easier to flag down trucks and turn your womanly wiles on the driver."

"One of the marvelous things about being a woman is that you can tell a man things that he wouldn't even take from another man."

But, "a week of picketing upsets the whole household," continued the mother of five children. "You sure don't have time to clean when you are running four picket lines for six days, 24 hours a day."

"It takes a lot of time and I've given up a lot of other activities, but I wouldn't be in it if my husband and family didn't think it was for a good cause," she pointed out. "The biggest gamble there is, is farming . . . and we can no longer afford to let urban-oriented people make decisions for 'agri-politan' America."

"We had to let processors know that we weren't going to sit back and do nothing," she added.

After the September, 1972, picket the group had raised fruit farming profits to $2 million in New York and $2½ million in Michigan.

"That sounds like a lot of money, but still most of the farmers just broke even."

However, Mrs. Steffens emphasized that the group is concentrating on other tactics, aside from picketing. These include writing letters to government representatives, testifying at hearings, lobbying in state capitals, educating themselves, banning together during crisis situations and working for beneficial legislation.

For example, according to Mrs. Steffens, WSAM strongly supported the Michigan Agricultural Marketing and Bargaining Act, which was signed in January, 1973.

"This was landmark legislation which allows fruit and vegetable growers to form associations by commodities or bargaining units and the processor is compelled to bargain in good faith with the association even if it comes to arbitration," she noted.

"It was a real challenge because the processors fought it every step of the way, right to the Governor's desk," she added with a smile. "It's come to the point that if we don't have a say, we can't stay in business."

Mrs. Steffens also touched on the expanded role of the contemporary farm woman, who is not only wife and mother, but also errand girl, bookkeeper, secretary and one willing to become involved in political activities.

"We have to do this if we are going to have agriculture-oriented people making decisions," she contended. "I'm glad I became involved. I've made new friends and my role has expanded."

"It's fascinating to do something about these problems. I find this so vital and interesting. I feel it is time well-spent."

Commenting on youth in agriculture, Mrs. Steffens noted that "the average age of farmers today is 57 years."

"It takes about $200,000 for a young person to start in farming. We need programs to help these young people get started."

"There has been a decline in the number of young people entering farming, because they have to work long hours, the expense is high and the profits are not as great as those their city cousins receive."

"Farming has to be profitable to encourage young people to stay on the farms. It's all economics," she concluded.

An Old Art Returns

"It's an old, old art and it's coming back," Mrs. Dee Myers said of the skill of china painting.

Mrs. Myers is an instructor of china painting and one of 25 Lincoln women who recently organized to form the Capitol China Painters club.

"It is an art that kind of died," she continued, "but a renewed interest is created when people see antique china painted plates, which have become very valuable."

"Also, people now have more time and money to spend on such a hobby. Besides, in many of the crafts, people finish items and then don't know what to do with them. Hand-painted china can be handed down through the family and there is never any two alike."

"Current china painters create mostly for their own use," she pointed out. "They cherish their works too much to part with them, but sometimes they'll use them for gifts.

"All of the work done on china is free-hand and on imported porcelain," Mrs. Myers explained.

According to two other members of Capitol China Painters — Mrs. Mike Berg, president and Mrs. Luella Andrews — china painting is time consuming, but a very enjoyable hobby.

"I had taken a few china painting lessons about 60 years ago, when I was 20 years old," said Mrs. Andrews. "Then, after I had an operation about three years ago, I decided to do all of the things I wanted to do, such as china and oil painting."

Since Mrs. Berg also had an interest in china painting, the pair decided to enroll in classes together.

Now, Mrs. Andrews receives numerous requests from her grandchildren for china plates and she is continually making coffee cups for friends and relatives, which display illustrations of their particular hobbies.

"We are willing to accommodate more members interested in joining the club or taking instruction," concluded Mrs. Myers.

The group meets the third Wednesday of each month from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. This month's meeting will be held Wednesday at the First Lutheran Church, 70th and A Streets. Mrs. Frank Adams will present the program demonstration.

Other officers include Mrs. Lyle McKlem, first vice president; Mrs. Robert Pfeifer, second vice president; Mrs. Kenneth Bolkowitz, recording secretary; Mrs. Foster Gilliam, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ned Saunders, treasurer; Mrs. Elmer Schwier, historian; and Mrs. Walter Meyers, parliamentarian.

Omaha NOW Knocks 'No Fault' Law

men to rip off their children just as they have been ripping off their wives under the infamous, so-called no fault divorce law."

The statement was issued by Ms. Ellen Sim Dewey, chairperson for the group's marriage, family relations and divorce committee. She also is research director for the organization's committee to revise the marriage and divorce laws.

The committee failed to mention that the old law required support until age 21.

This omission, the Omaha NOW chapter said, allows these not 18 as under the present status," Ms. Dewey said. "And thus the college educations of most children of high and middle-income parents were protected" in the past.

Under the current divorce law,

Ms. Dewey said, husbands with professional occupations, such as lawyers, doctors and judges, are "discarding wives of 15, 20, 30 years with no back pay for their wives' contributions or with pittance amounts such as $50 a month for two or three years."

Ms. Dewey noted that 64% of the men ordered last year to pay child support in Lancaster County were not paying it. She said Douglas County officials have "allegedly admitted" that there are 20,000 cases of failure to pay child support "on file in the courts right now."

Good secretaries earn good money!

Julie Moreland
Executive Secretary,
Gateway Bank

Not just a job, a good-paying career. It's old-fashioned to think that secretarial work is boring and offers bad pay. Today's secretary can earn as much as most junior executives — and if she's good, even more. With generous fringe benefits.

Dull work? Not a chance!

Do you think being right-hand to a TV network vice president is dull? Or administrative assistant in an advertising agency? Or executive secretary to an airline executive? These are just a few of the exciting secretarial careers you can have — but to earn executive pay, you must have executive skills . . . and Lincoln School of Commerce can teach you these skills quickly and easily.

A career within a year.

Whether you attend day or night classes, when you graduate in about 12 months you'll speedwrite at 120 WPM and type at 60 WPM and have all the other skills you need for better pay. Lincoln School of Commerce has trained and placed hundreds of people — and they can do it for you. Call now while we still have openings for the January semester. Or, write for a free brochure. Remember . . . the sooner you start, the sooner you'll be on your way to a more exciting, more rewarding career.

Opening lead - eight of spades.

The defenders usually have more to think about than the declarer - because they don't see each other's hands and consequently have only a partial view of their combined resources.

Declarer, however, seeing dummy's cards and his own, is in a much better position to assess his strong and weak points and to take advantage of the knowledge he possesses and the opponents do not.

East had a problem of sorts when he won the spade lead after declarer had followed low from dummy. But correctly he decided there was no future in a spade continuation.

Accordingly, he shifted to a low club, thus sounding the death knell for declarer's chances. South played low, West taking the eight and

Malone Center Request Is Forwarded To Mayor

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

A plea by the Malone Community Center board of directors Monday for $18,032 in city funds to renovate the deteriorating Malone Center was forwarded by the City Council to Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf for a recommendation.

Board member Wright Robinson told city lawmakers that the building is in need of repair and that the gym floor "is in a deplorable state."

Robinson said there is a "risk involved whenever any activities are held in the gym" and said $6,000 would cover the cost of fixing the floor.

Other Repairs

Other repairs needed include painting, storm windows, central air conditioning and putting in a burglar alarm system.

City Atty. Dick Wood reported that the land and building in which the center is located have been city owned since 1940.

Although the city holds title to the property, Lincoln Community Services has provided the dollars for the center's programs.

John Goessman said Lincoln Community Services approved a $67,000 budget for the Malone Center for 1974.

He said, "There's no question that they need repairs for adequate programming in the center."

3-5 Years Yet

He predicted that the present building could last another three to five years.

"Beyond that, a new physical plant will be needed," he said.

Robinson pointed out that one of the reasons no major expenditures have been made on the building's renovation is its location. The building sits in the proposed roadbed for the controversial Northeast Radial.

Councilman Bob Sikuta said it would be "bad business for the city" to let the building deteriorate.

In other action, the council endorsed a $44,159 grant application of the University of Nebraska College of Architecture to finance formulation of a plan for the area surrounding the State Capitol.

The grant will be sought from the National Endowment for the Arts. The grant calls for matching funds from NU in developing a plan that would include land use, building heights, views, pedestrian and vehicular traffic movement, utilization and maintenance of the Capitol Building and development of the major axial streets which focus on the building.

— recommendation that the Department of Roads investigate further construction in 40th north of Hwy. 2 to solve drainage problems and to provide for bicycle paths under the proposed bridge over Beal's Slough on 40th.

— recommendation that all major intersections be signalized, the installation of street lighting and additional beautification to be considered. Such measures would provide

City Engineer Dick Erixson reported that even if a decision were made to build the radial, construction involving the center would be five years away.

Other Possibility

Council members discussed the possibility of paying the repair bills out of the Park and Recreation or Community Development Department budgets and asked the mayor for a recommendation.

"Bike trails just don't work," he added.

Wilson also reported that manufacturer of a pedal-car may get under way in Lincoln.

In further action, the council approved a 5% wage hike retroactive to Jan. 4 for Health Department employees. The increase will equalize Health Department workers' wages with other city workers.

Wilson said such licensing is needed to teach bike riders how to operate those vehicles in regular traffic. He said any traffic impediment from bike riders comes "from bicyclists who don't know what they're doing."

Linney Questions Funding Of Plant

... Engineers See Advantages

"We're raising more questions than we have the answers to," said Nate Beezley, president of the southeast chapter.

"Either way we go, we're going to be stuck with it for 40 or 50 years," said Harry Dingman, also a co-chairman of the committee.

Highlights of the report include:

— a statement that a central heating plant would be more economical in terms of fuel conservation than more than 100 small heating units.

Less Pollution

— a statement that one tall smokestack would contribute less to air pollution than more than 100 short stacks which make it more difficult to control emissions.

— a suggestion that a new heating plant could burn solid wastes now being hauled to the city dump, a move which might require citizen participation to sort glass, plastic and metal from burnable wastes.

(Traudt said that cities including St. Louis, Chicago, Nashville, London and Paris have already gone to such a program.)

— a suggestion that even if a new plant were not equipped to process solid wastes, it could still burn coal (of which the supply is reportedly ample) with more economy and less harm to the environment than more than 100 small heating units.

Necessities

Canney, however, said that in order to put "an economic floor" under the proposal, it would be necessary either to force every "man, woman and child" in Lincoln to subsidize it or to force customers in the downtown core to use the service.

"Can we afford to put the downtown core on a source of energy which will raise costs and actually weaken it?" asked Dingman.

Canney said that the LES board, in making its decision to abandon steam heat, had questioned whether it "had the license to subsidize a specific group" (downtown merchants).

Copies of the 46-page report will be given to members of the City Council, the County Board, the Downtown Advisory Committee, the LES board and Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf, according to Beezley.

Visit Allowed

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (AP) — Miss Universe for 1973, Maris Margaret Moran of the Philippines, arrived for a look at Niagara Falls from the Canadian side but found she had left her passport and Canadian visa in New York. But customs officials waived regulations and allowed her to enter Canada for a 90-minute visit.

Minorities Employment Plan Submitted To HUD For Okay

City lawmakers were told Monday that the city's affirmative action plan to recruit and employ minorities has been submitted to the Department of Housing and Urban Development for approval.

Personnel Director Walt Mitchell told council members that the city is virtually "doing all the things we should now" except for publicizing the plan and setting up training guidelines. Federal guidelines on training are still unclear.

Mitchell reported that approximately 3% of the city's work force are minorities.

"We're aware of minority employment problems," he said, but pointed out in a city with a low minority population, 2%, positions because "a lot of girls just like it where they are."

Natural For Them

In response to Councilwoman Helen Boosalis's query as to what the city is doing to encourage women to apply for management jobs, Mitchell reported that women are moving into supervisory positions in data processing and the library system, which he contended, "is a natural for them."

Mitchell said it has been difficult to transfer women clerical workers to management positions because "a lot of girls just like it where they are."

Boosalis replied, "I'm not talking about them," but said she was referring to recruiting professionally trained women to hold down management jobs.

Mitchell explained that there are few such job vacancies in the city.

Move Anywhere

Referring to Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf's recommendation to move the Personnel Department out of City Hall, Mitchell said, "We can move anywhere."

Schwartzkopf has recommended council approval of that move to make way for the fourth municipal courtroom.

Personnel would move into space at the new Lincoln Federal Building at 11th and N.

The council was to have acted on that recommendation Monday. However, several council members requested a delay to look into the possibility of keeping the department in the building, possibly on the county side.

Police said William J. McVicker sustained cuts and abdominal injuries when he was struck by an eastbound car driven by Rita A. McCaslin, 22, of 2060 E.

Police said the woman said she was distracted by a child in the front seat of her car.

New Contracts For Players Could Cause Dolphins Trouble

HOUSTON (AP) — Coach Don Shula acknowledged Monday that he was floating on cloud nine.

"I am full of pride," he said, "this was our greatest game" — but certain turbulence lies ahead for the Super Bowl football champion Miami Dolphins.

Most of the big stars in Sunday's workmanlike 24-7 victory over Minnesota—Larry Csonka, Mercury Morris, Paul Warfield and Nick Buoniconti, among them—go to the conference table for renewal of contracts.

It could be a hassle, and Shula admitted it.

"We have some talking to do," the Miami coach said, adding that negotiations would be in the hands of A.P. Peppler, the team's director of pro scouting.

However, everybody knows that Peppler is only the front man and that the final draft of all contracts is reserved for Joseph Robbie, the president and general manager, and Shula.

"I run the football operations," Shula said firmly at an early morning news conference before flying back to Miami with his triumphant Dolphins.

"You can expect to see a lot of new faces on next year's team," said linebacker Doug Swift, the Dolphin player representative. "A lot of important contracts come up for renewal and you can bet the guys will be asking more than the management wants to pay."

One of the key contracts is that of the 237-pound Csonka, who emerged as one of the sports' true super stars by rushing for a record 145 yards and two touchdowns in the crunching humiliation of one of pro football's most highly touted defenses.

His present salary is $55,000. He is expected to shoot for the $100,000 range. Big raise demands can also be expected from such standouts as ball carrier Mercury Morris, safeties Jake Scott and Dick Anderson and Paul Warfield, one of football's best pass receivers. All are in the $40,000-$50,000 range.

Tight end Jim Mandich, who caught one of the key passes that helped crack Minnesota's spirit early in the game, has played out his option and can dicker for new employment.

Jim Kiick, once a running mate of Csonka in the backfield, has been unhappy over being relegated to a secondary role behind Mercury Morris and has told friends he wants to be traded.

"Mandich didn't think he fitted into our plans," Shula said Monday. "He thought we wanted bigger tight ends and stronger blockers. But Jim has proved himself. He has played outstanding ball in the playoffs."

I think he may feel now that he is an important cog in our team. I have promised to talk to him after the confusion dies down."

Shula and Kiick had never discussed a desire to be traded with him although he had heard reports of the running back's unhappiness.

"I played golf with Jim recently and he didn't mention it."

Senior Duo Leads Crete

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

When Crete graduated basketball all-stars Randy Wenz and Tim Edwards last spring, fans may have braced themselves for some sort of letdown.

They shouldn't have . . . not with Loren Wiederspan and Steve Yost around. The senior pair may not pack as much overall scoring wallop as Wenz and Edwards, but it's potent.

Consequently, Crete has maintained its traditional winning basketball ways, which are reflected in a 6-2 record and No. 5 Class B ranking behind new leader Ord. No. 2 Aurora, No. 3 Cozad and No. 4 Lexington.

The 6-2 Wiederspan has averaged 22 points and 9 rebounds through eight games while the 6-4 Yost has contributed 18 points and 15 rebounds a game.

Although Yost's impressive performance thus far can be classified as somewhat of a surprise, Crete basketball coach Walt Harris insists that Wiederspan's talent has never fully been appreciated.

"We've used Loren in a different capacity the last couple of years," points out Harris. "We kept him inside at post in an outside-oriented offense. I guess he sort of existed in the shadow of those other two (Wenz and Edwards)."

"He's always done an excellent job," Harris says of Wiederspan. Crete's outstanding football quarterback. "He can do a lot of things. In large measure,

Class B

1—Ord (8-0)
2—Aurora (7-1)
3—Cozad (7-1)
4—Lexington (6-1)
5—Crete (6-2)

Comment — West Point Central Catholic (8-2) and Plattsburgh (8-1) are prime ratings timber. Unbeaten Aquinas replaces Plattsburgh among elite. But Plattsburgh could regain stature with strong showing in Twin Rivers Conference Tournament this week. Holy Name's status is questionable after 1-point loss at Lincoln Pius X.

Class C

1—Howells (9-0)
2—Coleridge (9-0)
3—Henderson (7-2)
4—Neligh (7-1)
5—Sanctuary Creek (5-1)

Comment — Coleridge is promoted to No. 2 for impressive showing in own tournament. Sutton tumbles to No. 8 after 59-56 loss to Osceola, a solid ratings candidate. Neligh, Springview, Wood River and Elm Creek are new. Previous unbeatens Oshkosh and Hershey drop out after losses.

Shula said, "Maybe it was because he beat me for ten bucks. I have no intention of trading Kiick. He's a valuable asset to the team."

Kiick scored one of the touchdowns against the Vikings, his first of the season. He has been used more sparingly since the emergence of Mercury Morris as an outside threat.

"I alternate Kiick with Morris," Shula said. "Kiick has a way of smelling that goal line."

Shula, recently signed to a new contract reportedly for five years at $85,000 a year, was beaming when he met with the Super Bowl press for the final time.

"Every year the team has done better," he said. "I consider what we did this year a greater accomplishment, although we lost two games, than our perfect season last year."

"To win a second straight Super Bowl was a great goal. Everybody was coming at us. This team had the ability to meet these challenges and rise to the occasion."

He said he was particularly proud of the way that the Dolphins met the tough tests of the three post-season games.

He said the basis of his coaching strategy is to concentrate on play execution. "We try to put a team on the field that can win," he added. "We strive for solid, error-free football. Our last three games produced."

Shula introduced his No. 1 assistant, Bill Arnsperger, and wished Arnsperger well in his new post as head coach of the New York Giants. "He's been with me ten years and his contributions have been invaluable," Shula said.

Arnsperger took the microphone to say, "I will be talking to the Giants in the next few days. Nothing is finalized."

Shula also cited the tremendous value to the Dolphins of Cozad, a 26-year-old, six-year veteran out of Syracuse.

"Larry is a source of strength," the head coach said. "He is constant. More than anyone else, he was responsible for holding the Morris-Kiick situation together."

CEDENO TO BE FREED? . . . Request Made To Drop Charges

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic (UPI) — The prosecution asked Monday that involuntary manslaughter charges be dropped against Houston Astros standout centerfielder Cesar Cedeno in the killing of a girlfriend during a motel tryst.

Judge Porfirio Natera said he would rule on the motion later this week, probably Wednesday or Thursday, but Dominican lawyers said trial judges almost always satisfy prosecution requests to quash charges.

Cedeno was accused in the Dec. 11 dawn slaying of Altigracia De La Cruz, 19, who was fatally shot in the head with Cedeno's .38-caliber pistol in the motel room they were sharing. District Attorney Frank Diza Alvarez surprised the courtroom with his motion that the charge be dropped.

He made the request two hours after the trial opened, following testimony by Cedeno, a motel waiter, and an aunt of the victim.

"There appears to be no indications of responsibility compromising the innocence of the accused, and the prosecution believes he should be absolved," Diaz Alvarez said.

Defense attorney Quirico Elpidio Perez earlier had requested a summary dismissal of the charge.

Cedeno was accused in the Dec. 11 dawn slaying of Altigracia De La Cruz, 19, who was fatally shot in the head with Cedeno's .38-caliber pistol in the

He cited a police report stating that a parafin test made of Miss De La Cruz' body indicated that she had fired a weapon with her right hand.

Cedeno, 22, free on $10,000 bond, embraced his American wife, Cora, 21, after the trial adjourned. She was at their winter home here at the time of the shooting.

On the stand, Cedeno said he and the girl had checked into the motel room and that he had ordered two bottles of beer.

"We were getting ready to go to bed and she saw the revolver and said, 'How pretty; let me see it,'" Cedeno testified.

He said he explained that it was loaded and dangerous but that she tried to grab it as he took a drink of beer. He tried to get it away from her, Cedeno testified.

NWU Cagers To Face Morningside On Road

Sioux City, Iowa — The Nebraska Wesleyan basketball team will end its nonconference season here Tuesday night at 7:30 against Morningside College.

The Plainsmen, 9-4, begin a 10-game Nebraska Inter-collegiate Athletic Conference schedule Saturday night by hosting defending champion Hastings.

Morningside should present a formidable challenge to NWU, despite a 3-10 record because the Iowans play in the tough North Central Conference.

North Dakota State and North Dakota defeated Morningside over the weekend, but had trouble containing Doug Schlesser.

Schlesser, a 6-11 center, is averaging about 20 points and 17 rebounds a game and makes about 56 per cent of his field goals.

We don't plan on doing anything special to try and stop Schlesser, but play the way we've done in the past," Dr. Irvin Peterson, the Plainsmen's head coach, said.

"We've only beaten Morningside once at home in the years I've been coach at Wesleyan, so we expect to have a tough game."

Peterson has been the Plainsmen basketball coach since 1953 and his teams play Morningside at home one year and on the road the next.

Morningside also has a scoring threat in 5-11 guard Bob Curry, who's averaging 16 points a game.

Parks helped spark NWU in the second half against Graceland, Iowa, to a win. Parks made eight of eight from the field in the second half.

Sophomore guard Bob Knollenberg is the only doubtful starter for NWU. The Lincoln High graduate suffered a slightly sprained ankle in Sunday's practice.

I Knollenberg is unable to start, Peterson indicated he may go with 6-9 Minden freshman Blake Butler of 6-4 junior Tom Maupin.

That would give the Plainsmen some additional height in the lineup, trying to stop Schlesser.

The other probable starters for the Capital City team are 6-2 guard Steve Joekel, 6-6 forward John Strain and 6-3 forward Dean DeBoer and 6-6 center Bob Parks.

Majors: Not Leaving Pitt

PITTSBURGH (AP) — For the latest word on whether Johnny Majors is still going to be the University of Pittsburgh's football coach next fall, just ask the people recruiting against him.

Some of the top prospects on Pitt's recruiting list are getting the wrong word, and Majors doesn't like it.

"It's amazing how other people do your thinking for you," he said Monday shortly before taking off on another talent hunt. "Everywhere I go, I run into boys who say they've been told by other schools that they shouldn't go to Pitt because 'Majors is going back South.' That's really not kosher, in my opinion."

Majors wouldn't identify the culprits by name. When pressed, though, he admitted that the tactic has "been used pretty good by one or two area schools—and that's all I'm going to say."

Before he turned losing programs around at Iowa State and Pitt, the Tennessee-born Majors was an All-American at the University of Tennessee and served as an assistant coach at his alma mater, Mississippi State and Arkansas. At last report, those three schools were still south of the Mason-Dixon Line.

"I was reared there, I have family and friends there and I enjoy visiting there," Majors said. "It's easy for people to say I'm going back to the South, but they don't know what I'm thinking. Pitt is all I'm interested in right now."

Majors has been hearing rumors that he's Southbound since he got his first head coaching job at Iowa State in 1968. They increased this winter when he was contacted by Mississippi about the vacancy there.

"I'm not interested in the Mississippi job and I'm not pursuing the matter," he said. "But I used to hear all those rumors when I was in Iowa and I know there was an awful lot of that kind of anti-recruiting when I first came to Pittsburgh last winter."

"I've had several opportu-

Dutton Wins Bowl Honor

Saturday's 25th annual Senior Bowl game proved to be a profitable venture for Nebraska players John Dutton, Daryl White and Rich Sanger.

Playing for the North team, which won the game 16-13, the Cornhusker trio picked up $1,500 each for their winning efforts.

In addition, Dutton was awarded an additional $1,000 for being named the outstanding defensive player on the North squad.

Heisman trophy winner John Cappelletti was named the top offensive player for the North while quarterback Danny White of Arizona State and Roscoe Word of Jackson State won the offensive and defensive awards for the South team.

The North won the game in the last 33 seconds on a 15-yard scoring pass from Kansas quarterback David Jaynes to Lynn Swann of Southern California.

Officers Elected

Lee Todd of Grant was elected chairman and Robert Pease of Wisner was elected vice-chairman of the Nebraska School Activities Association's Board of Control at its monthly meeting in Lincoln over the weekend.

ties to go back to the South and at one time I might've run backwards for them. But not now. I'm not interested in leaving. The people here have really sunk their teeth into the program and I have a strong desire to get something going here. I'm not sitting here looking or waiting for something else."

Pitt hadn't been a winner since 1963 until Majors coached the Panthers to a 6-4-1 regular season and a trip to the Fiesta Bowl last fall in the first season of a five-year contract.

"Nobody can say he'll never leave a job," Majors said. "Something might happen to your family or your boss tomorrow. Nobody can say never, I don't care who it is. But I'm very pleased with the contract I have and I like living in Pittsburgh."

Walton Status Uncertain

Chicago (AP) — Coach John Wooden of top-ranked UCLA said Monday that it's still undecided if injured All-American center Bill Walton will accompany the team East this week.

Talking via telephone to a meeting of Chicago Basketball Writers, Wooden was explicit that if Walton does make the trip he'll play against both Iowa and Notre Dame or not at all.

The Bruins, having extended their winning streak to 87 games, meet Iowa Thursday night in a Chicago Stadium doubleheader which also includes Oral Roberts and Loyola and then journey to South Bend for a nationally-televised Saturday afternoon encounter against second-ranked Notre Dame.

Wooden said Walton, who has a back injury, would not practice Monday. He added if Walton is unable to practice Tuesday, then Walton will not play against either Iowa or Notre Dame.

Wooden said Walton, who has a back injury, would not practice Monday. He added if Walton is unable to practice Tuesday, then Walton will not play against either Iowa or Notre Dame.

However, if Walton is able to practice Tuesday then the team's doctor and trainer will decide if he will be able to play in the two games.

Although Wooden insists the Iowa game takes precedent over Notre Dame at this time, the Bruins are not expected to encounter any difficulty against the Big Ten representative.

However, it's a different story against the Irish of Notre Dame, the last team to score a victory over UCLA.

If Walton plays, the oddsmakers are calling UCLA a four-point favorite. Without Walton, Notre Dame will be a four-point favorite.

"I don't read the oddsbooks," said Wooden. "but Bill is one of the supers the game has had and no player has been as valuable to a team as he has."

Wooden said if Walton does not make the trip, he'll be replaced by 7-foot-1 Ralph Drollinger, a sophomore.

"He has come along and we feel he can do the job," said Wooden. "He's not Walton, you can't compare him to Walton and he doesn't want to be compared to Walton."

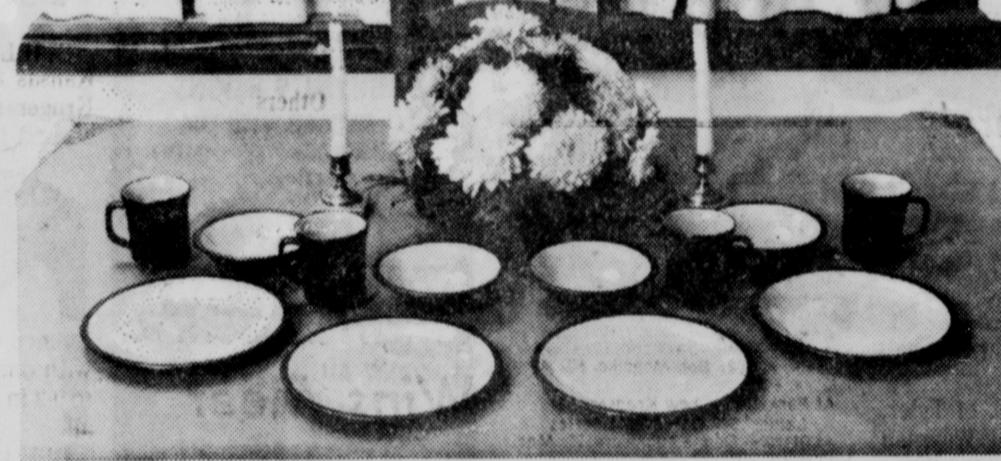

Admitting his club is not as physical without Walton, Wooden said his players "know how much we depend on him but I want my team to adjust when we have to make changes."

Asked how he can keep his team from thinking ahead to the Notre Dame game, Wooden said, "I don't permit them to talk about the Notre Dame game with Iowa coming up."

Nebraska License List Requested

The federal government has advised state officials that it may request a list of all licensed drivers in Nebraska by April 15, Gov. J. James Exon said Monday.

"Everything we get from the federal government seems to point to rationing," Exon told members of the Governor's Advisory Committee to the State Department of Economic Development at a meeting in which the committee went on record in support of the $1.6 million budget proposed by the department.

The State Legislature's fiscal office has recommended cutting travel and tourism items by about $70,000 and eliminating a $150,000 industrial training assistance program to provide emergency, short-term training for industrial workers. Cuts recommended by the office total about $246,000.

Although commenting that gas rationing would have an adverse "psychological effect" on tourist travel, Exon appeared to support restoration of the cuts.

"There are enough things against tourism now without giving some help from the budget," Exon said. "When business gets bad, that's when a businessman starts advertising."

In the area of industrial development, Ronald J. Mertens, deputy director of the State Department of Economic Development, said that 55 new industries located in the state during 1973 and 92 existing industries expanded.

The totals compare with 60 new industries and 82 expansions in 1972. Both were record totals. Exon said a "major share of the credit" for the high totals should go to the State Department of Economic Development and its advisory committee.

In other action the committee re-elected Bennett Martin of Lincoln to the Post of chairman.

Queen Of Green

Dawn Maystrick of Springfield reigns as the queen of Wayne State College freshmen for 1973-74. She received the crown of queen of the green at an annual dance sponsored by the Student Activities Board. Miss Maystrick is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Maystrick.

A spokesman for the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division of the U.S. Treasury told the Gordon Journal that one of the Communist-made assault rifles was confiscated Nov. 17 after the arrest of several persons in Oklahoma City.

The spokesman said those involved were held on robbery charges and were also accused of fighting with the arresting officer.

The spokesman did not identify the persons being held as possible participants in the occi-

Wounded Knee Guns Reported Confiscated

Gordon (UPI) — Federal authorities in Oklahoma City say two AK47 automatic weapons used during the occupation of Wounded Knee, S.D., have been found and confiscated.

The spokesman said the second AK47 believed used at Wounded Knee was confiscated a short time earlier at Los Angeles.

Authorities said the guns were taken out of Wounded Knee on the morning of May 7, 1973, by three men. The three are accused of robbing and holding a rancher Lyle Berbina, who lives southeast of Wounded Knee.

2 Taylor Youths Sweep Show With Champion Hereford Steers

Denver — Brent Meeks and Cindy Steckel, both from Taylor, Neb., tied up the Hereford division of the National Western Junior Livestock Show here when they showed the grand and reserve grand champion Hereford steers, respectively.

Meeks' steer won first place in the heavyweight Hereford class and Steckel's placed first in the mediumweight class before going on to breed championships.

Other placings were as follows:

Hog Division — Pair of spotted barrows: first, Laura Dietrich, Marquette.

Lamb Division — Registered Suffolk ewe lambs: eighth, Ken Robare, Jr., Geneva. Lightweight Suffolk wether: seventh, Carree Eberspacher, Exeter; Pair of Suffolk wethers: seventh, Carree Eberspacher, Exeter.

Two University of Nebraska-Lincoln teams placed fourth and ninth in separate judging contests at the National Western Livestock Show.

The NU wool judging team placed fourth out of the eight teams competing. In individual competition, team members Alan Koelling of Ord and Glen Cope of Milligan placed seventh and eighth, respectively.

The NU livestock judging team ranked ninth out of 22 teams overall, was high team in market cattle judging; third in beef cattle judging. The team wins were aided by member Terry Wilkerson's individual first place scoring in cattle judging and beef cattle reasons.

Spinalia, 65, is a favorite of the military right and has been mentioned as possible eventual successor to President Americo Thomaz. The four-star general has strong backing among the military brass.

Gen. Francisco Da Costa Gomes is the military chief of staff.

Sources declined to speculate on the new post. There were unconfirmed reports last week of discontent within the military over pay and regulations.

59 New Bills Pour Into Hopper

By The Associated Press

In a preview to a deluge expected Tuesday, Nebraska lawmakers poured 59 new bills into the Legislature's hopper Monday. Subjects ranged from taxes to teachers, bingo to bonds for Israel, recycling to retirement.

Tuesday, the 10th legislative day, becomes the deadline day for bill introduction by individual senators. Two years ago, at a session also limited to 60 days, the deadline day saw 143 bills introduced.

Employ Clerk
Lewis also proposed that the State Court of Industrial Relations, which is handling many teacher negotiations cases, be authorized to employ a clerk and move out of the State Capitol Building.

The issue of sales tax exemption on food purchases, once strongly supported by Gov. J. James Exon was revived. Sen. Richard Fellman of Omaha introduced a bill submitting to voters in November a constitutional amendment prohibiting sales taxes on food items.

Fellman also introduced a bill with revenue earmarked for school aid.

Contracts of teachers could not be terminated without just cause under a bill delivered by Sen. Wally Barnett of Lincoln.

Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue, a former teacher, sponsored a bill making all school districts subject to the Nebraska Teachers' Professional Negotiations Act. Present law exempts the smaller school districts, Class 1 and 2.

One License Plate
Motor vehicles would show only one license plate, instead of two, under a bill sponsored by Sen. Blair Richendifer of Walthill. And Sen. James Dickinson of Millard proposed that passenger cars be re-registered on the anniversary of the original registration, doing away with mass re-registration in the forepart of each calendar year.

Bicycles would need reflective material on pedals and tires under a bill from Sen. Harold T. Moylan of Omaha. And long highway rigs would need to display warning signs under a bill from Sen. Cal Carsten of Avoca.

Bills to regulate modeling schools and medical laboratory personnel were received, and enlargement of the Equal Opportunity Commission was proposed.

Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood asked a one-cent tax on alcoholic liquor or soft drink containers, with revenue going into a basic and applied science research fund. Schmit's Agriculture Committee has been looking into means of encouraging recycling.

Schmit also delivered a bill increasing the welfare payment to a family with one dependent child from $124 to $175 per month. For each added dependent child, the monthly payment would be increased from $34 to $35.

Increases in the cost of living were recognized in a pair of new bills. One would permit adjustment in retirement benefits for University of Nebraska employees, and the other would provide a cost-of-living adjustment in the state salary plan.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE - Here's how to work it: A X Y D L B A A X R is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
